

Dear Exhibitors:

Thank you for exhibiting in imm 2009.

We would like to draw your attention again to the following important statements, rules & regulations of our trade fairs to ensure your successful participation. Please indicate your acknowledgement and adherence to the extracted clauses stated.

1. No Copy Policy

1.1 Reproduction or imitation of products is illegal if it infringes industrial property rights. Property rights can be trademarks, patents, utility models or registered designs.

1.2. a) Check whether you hold industrial property rights. If no, you can contact an attorney to find out how to acquire such rights.

b) If yes, take the documents that prove these rights along with you.

c) Take any documents showing previous infringements of your property rights – for example, any warnings sent or signed declarations of forbearance.

d) Take any documents in possession of a court decision against an “imitator”.

1.3. a) If another exhibitor is infringing one of your industrial property rights, send the “imitator” a warning to ask him to move out such imitating products.

b) or/and have him sign a declaration of forbearance.

c) If the “imitator” is not prepared to sign a declaration of forbearance, you can consider applying for a temporary injunction. A temporary injunction is generally a court order prohibiting the “imitator” from continuing to exhibit the imitation product or offer it in another form, from bringing it into circulation and/or from advertising it.

d) if the “imitator” has signed declarations of forbearance or get the court decision of infringements of property rights before, the exhibits may be confiscated directly and the exhibitors will be imposed a fine.

1.4. Koelnmesse is particularly concerned about protecting industrial property rights and want to assist as much as we can in any action might take against product piracy. Koelnmesse reserves the right to exclude exhibitors who have been the subject of a court decision on product piracy from participating in the subsequent trade fair.

2. Eligibility to participate

Acceptance to exhibit at the trade fair is essentially restricted to manufacturers and their distributors and importers whose products correspond to the focus of the event (see List of Goods).
